

SOUNDTRACK OF THE 60s

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Show #831-2 Airdate: January 8/9, 1983

Hosted by Gary Owens

Our special guest this week, BILL WYMAN, became the bass player of The Rolling Stones 20 years ago this month, in January, 1963. Wyman recalls the craziness of rock music fans in 1965, and compares The Rolling Stones of the 1960s to The Beatles.

We'll also visit with singer TRINI LOPEZ, a hitmaker of the 60s who added a Latin beat to American folk music, and enjoyed international success with "If I Had A Hammer" and "Lemon Tree."

We'll take a close look at one of America's favorite all-girl singing groups of the 1960s--THE CHIFFONS. The female quartet from New York recorded two of 1963s biggest hits, "He's So Fine" and "One Fine Day."

And on our journey back to the second week in January, 1969, we'll find Richard Nixon preparing for a presidential inauguration, Apollo 8 astronauts riding in a New York tickertape parade, and The Beatles starring in the hit movie, Yellow Submarine.

As always with each show, Great Movie Themes Of The Decade, & our listeners talk about their favorite memories of the 60s.
