

WITH GARY OWENS

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Program K841-12

Airdate: March 24/25, 1984

Coming at you one more time is Gary Owens and the one and only SOUNDTRACK OF THE 60's. This week Gary will be talking with the son of the Rifleman Johnny Crawford, the son of a working man Joe Cocker and the third original part of the Supremes; Mary Wilson.

"He's So Fine" do lang do lang do lang do lang. Remember that tune by the Chifons back in 1963? Evidently George Harrison remembered it too. Gary knows why George was really saying "My Sweet Lord" after the courts go through with him.

Besides going to the SOUNDTRACK OF THE 60's fifties malt shop to hear the King do "Hound Dog" Gary will also celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Kings, induction into the service. And this was one case where the government lost out on some easy money by drafting Elvis.

As we go back east will reminisce about the Scene. The club in New York where Hendrix, Jagger, and even Richard Pryor would go to work the kinks out.

In the screening room this week is the 1965 Oscar winner Julie Christie, in her Academy Award vehicle "Darling." Though some said it went "from bed to worse" the Beach Boys did bring out "Darlin" just three years later so somebody like it.

You remember Motown 25? The special that aired last year. Mary Wilson one of the original Supremes talks to Gary about that very special night. We'll hear her old group do "Someday Will Be Together." They probably didn't think it would take quite so long.

For the fourth week of March 1967 the number three record was by the Beatles, the song Penny Lane. At number two the Mamas and the Papas were singing "Dedicated to the One I Love." The Number one record became a standard for the Turtles though, and that was "Happy Together."
