

WITH GARY OWENS

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Program K841-13

Airdate: March 31, April 1, 1984

The Searchers, Marvin Gaye, the Rolling Stones, and even Frank Sinatra join host Gary Owens this week on SOUNDTRACK OF THE 60's. As he steps back in the sixties Gary talks with Mary Wells about stage fright, Jerry Paris about the Dick Van Dyke show and to two Turtles about what it's like to become one.

A special visit to the SOUNDTRACK OF THE 60's malt shop finds Little Richard singing "Good Golly Miss Molly." Tracking the other way in time to take a sneak peak at the seventies there's "Sundown" by Gordon Lightfoot.

The sixties were a starting place for a lot of people. One of the artists that got his writer, director, and acting feet soaked was Woody Allen. He did it all in our SOS screening room feature "Take The Money and Run." Like an early Zelig this work combines styles of movie making for a fascinating whole.

Another actor, writer director who came on strong in the sixties and is still having an influence is Jerry Paris. Jerry co-starred on the old Dick Van Dyke show as the next door neighbor/dentist. Since that time he has gone on to become a force behind T.V. shows like "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley."

Gary will also be celebrating a couple of anniversaries. There will be one for the Everly Brothers, back on tour in England. For the world's first all music TV show Hootenanny we'll also tip our hat.

For the last week in March 1966 the top three records included, "Soul and Inspiration" at number three by the Righteous Brothers. Then "19th Nervous Breakdown" by the Rolling Stones at number two. At number one that week Staff Sgt. Barry Sadler and "The Ballad of the Green Berets."

All this and more this week on SOUNDTRACK OF THE 60's.
